

Health First Blog

CAREERS IN HEALTH

Health Industries

The health industry is one of the most talked-about industries in the world; whether it is public health, mental health, medical health, or physical health everyone has interacted or dealt with someone in the health care industry. There are so many different roles in the health care industry from doctors all the way to taste testers. This blog post will go through some of the careers that play a role in developing the health care industry and what it has to offer.

Health Careers

There are so many different kinds of career paths that someone interested in the health care industry can take. For example, if you want to work in a hospital there are over 50 different types of jobs! If you want to work at a school you can work as a counselor, a gym teacher, a health teacher, a coach, or even a nutrition teacher. The possibilities are endless!

Examples of Careers in Health

We are going to outline some of the careers you might want to think about in the Health industry and a little bit about what these professionals do

Health Industry Careers

Here are some amazing careers in the health care industry

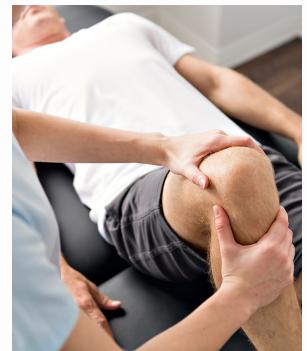

JOB DESCRIPTION

Nutritionist are experts in all things related to food and allow people to use food as a way to live a healthy life. There are so many different types of nutritionists such as holistic, clinical, public health, management, and sports. They all play an important role in catering to their clients specific dietary needs.

Nutritionists

Physiotherapists provide their patients with a plan to treat injuries and restore physical function, motility, and prevent and alleviate pain. This is a very hands-on form of rehabilitation. There are also many different kinds of physiotherapist to explore

Physiotherapist

Nuclear pharmacists are in charge of taking care of the inventory of radioactive drugs used in nuclear medicine this includes packaging, labeling, storing, and transporting these nuclear pharmaceuticals

Nuclear Pharmacist

FOLLOW OUR SOCIAL MEDIA

Health Industry Careers

Here are some amazing careers in the health care industry

JOB DESCRIPTION

Psychologists play an important role in mental health. They look at diagnosing, evaluating and treating mental emotional behavioural and developmental disorders. There are clinical, counselling and research psychologist.

Psychologists

Medevac Pilots are responsible for responding to medical emergencies via aircraft, they are emergency medical services pilots that are highly qualified and experienced.

Medevac Pilot

A lot of people in the industry want to take control and own an establishment, this is what gym owners do. There are so many gyms and private facilities that professionals have become the owners of or have established on their own.

Gym owner/ Personal Trainer

FOLLOW OUR SOCIAL MEDIA

